Making This Country Great

BY DIDDIE STAPLES

The 2015 Dublin Gas Engine Meet, held over a lovely weekend in mid-September, showcased a wide variety of beautiful antique one-lunger engines, 50 antique tractors and more than 20 antique vehicles.

There was a tractor parade on Saturday afternoon. The working machinery included a shingle mill, corn chopper, cider press, Baker fan, ice cream maker and a wood lathe making bats for onlooking children. The children also enjoyed the sand pile and barrel car rides. A good time was had by all!

Photos include one of the tractor parade, one beautiful engine that belongs to a gentleman from Rhode Island, and the 1922 Oil Pull tractor, which belongs to Dave Whitney, one of the organizers of the event. Dave also designed and built the sign shown here; its numbers for the dates can be changed each year.

Thanks to all who came to the meet. It's important to preserve the things that made this country great, though it's hard to imagine those engines running water pumps, saw mills etc. Amazingly, one engine at the meet was used in an oil field in Pennsylvania to pump oil!

Pierce Meadow Dedication at Dublin School

On August 25th, in conjunction with its annual Summer Gathering, Dublin School dedicated the newest spot on its campus — Pierce Meadow. This beautiful 20-acre parcel of land, adjacent to the School's lower Alumni Field, was purchased two years ago with the help of several supporters and named in memory of John Pierce Jr., father of Dublin School alumnus Jamie Pierce '13.

John was the former senior vice president of Yankee Publishing and group publisher of The Old Farmer's Almanac. John's wife, Sherin Pierce, and Brad Bates spoke briefly to a crowd of both Dublin School members and employees of Yankee Magazine.

Following the dedication, the group joined the other over 75 attendees at Dublin School's annual Summer Gathering of local friends and

Fresh Start and Big Plans for DCP

Every little bit helps.

BY KELLEY WELLS

Dublin Community Preschool, which has been operating in town for 51 years, started as a small, part-time, half-day preschool. With help from the staff and community, it has grown into a full-day preschool, which also offers before- and after-school care for students from DCS.

As wonderful as this is, the staff and board realized DCP needs to continue growing. After researching the current communities, we saw a large demand for younger care. We are pleased to announce that we will soon be offering full- and part-time infant and toddler care. Although an opening date is not yet decided, plans are in motion to expand into the space directly next to the current classroom. We have been working with the new owner of the building, along with members of the community, to make this as quick and cost effective as possible.

All of us at DCP are brainstorming ideas on how to reach out to the community and local resources to help fund the expansion. We will be accepting monetary donations of all sizes, along with age-appropriate items for the new area. We are very hopeful for the future of our little preschool.

If you would like to add your name to the waiting list for childcare, please contact Bethany LeBlanc at the preschool: 563-8508.

KELLEY WELLS is president of the executive board of the DCP.

With the start of a new school year, the Dublin Community Preschool has experienced many changes.

After 20-plus years with DCP, Cathy Carabello resigned from her director position. Bethany Leblanc stepped in to fill that position and brings many years of experience along with some great ideas. Liane Rousseau has joined us as afternoon lead teacher. Both teachers are passionate about early education and live locally. They join Liz Holmes, who has played a large role in the success of DCP since 2003.

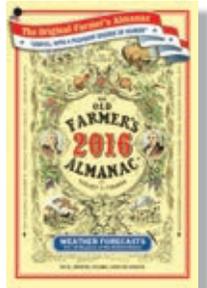

For inquiries about donating or volunteering, please contact Kelley Wells at Kelleywells@outlook.com.

Yankee Publishes 2016 Old Farmer's Almanac

The Old Farmer's Almanac—known for its wit, wisdom, and weather forecasts since 1792—originates from the not-so-secret headquarters of Yankee Publishing Inc. here in Dublin.

The most recent edition of The Old Farmer's Almanac arrives with a forecast of a super cold winter on tap for much of the country, especially along most of the Atlantic seaboard and in the Ohio Valley, Great Lakes, Pacific Northwest, and southwestern states. The Northeast, Ohio Valley, northern Plains, and Pacific Northwest should brace for a slew of snow. And the Almanac should know: Its 2015 predictions of a bleak and biting winter was accurate.

In the 2016 Old Farmer's Almanac, you'll enjoy the biggest supermoon in decades, coming up on November 14, 2016; angling advice; and much more. Print versions of The 2016 Old Farmer's Almanac ($6.99) can be purchased online from almanac.com/shop and in stores.

The Community Center's Chicken BBQ a Real Crowdpleaser

BY RAMONA BRANCH

The BBQ dinner hosted by the Dublin Community Center in August was one of highlights of our community's summer activities. The event was held on one of those summer evenings so perfect you didn't want it to end.

Dining tables were draped in colorful rainbow tablecloths on the lawn of the side yard. More than 80 people enjoyed generous portions of BBQ chicken cooked by Bruce Simpson. As a Texan, I have to say Bruce's chicken came pretty close to the legendary standards of Texas BBQ.

Complementing the tasty chicken was corn on the cob, cole slaw, baked beans, potato salad and cornbread. Folks who had room for dessert enjoyed watermelon and chocolate chip cookies.

The evening ended with the drawing for the large birdhouse made by former Dublin resident Jim Sovik. Volunteers had worked through the summer selling raffle tickets, over 1500, and raised about $1300 for the Center, affectionately called the Dub Hub. The winner of the birdhouse was Marilyn Nolan of Massachusetts.

This was Americana at its best. The Dublin Community Center Board of Directors and the volunteers who made the event happen are to be congratulated for providing the community such a fun and enjoyable evening. We can only hope that the board continues this great event next year.

RAMONA BRANCH is on the staff of the Advocate.

The Latest from DCS

BY NICOLE PEASE

After much preparation and anticipation by the staff at Dublin Consolidated School, the 2015-2016 school year has begun. August 27th was an amazing first day! From the moment the new propane buses quietly arrived delivering the excited students, the day flew by at breakneck speed.

We welcomed 12 new kindergartners and five new families. The enthusiasm the students brought to the building was contagious. We have some new staff members to introduce: Ellen Gorr (EST), Derek Castor (PE), and Nicole Boisvert (Library/Media Specialist). We are excited to add our new students and staff to the DCS family.

With a district change in elementary school schedules, our day begins at 8:20 am and ends at 3:25 pm. The extra half-hour each day will allow for teachers to have more time for direct instruction in Science and Social Studies.

For the past three weeks, students have been busy learning new routines, connecting with old friends and making new ones, as well as engaging in many other learning activities. Teachers have been busy establishing what their students' needs are, and we have almost finished the first of the math and reading screenings, which will help this process along.

Last month brought many events: new math assessment training for teachers began mid-September; the after-school Science Club begins September 22; DCS will host a Curriculum and Assessment Night on September 24 from 6 to 7 pm; and on September 25 the Kindergarten through Third grades will attend a performance at the Colonial Theater in Keene.

I feel so fortunate to be the new principal of DCS, and to work with such a wonderful staff and such a great group of students! May Clark has been especially helpful in making this transition as smooth as possible.

NICOLE PEASE, the new principal at DCS, is also the SAU 1 District Math Coach.

The Transfer Station will be open Veterans Day, which falls on Wednesday, November 11th.

DCS PTO Building a New Playground

BY MARY ARMSTRONG

The members of Dublin Consolidated School's Parent Teacher Organization (PTO) have a good start on the funds necessary to install a new playground at the Dublin Consolidated School, but they are still seeking contributions to make their vision a reality.

The current DCS playground is used throughout the course of the year. It consists of slides, swings and other equipment including a tetherball pole. Not only is the playground used during the school months, but it is also used daily by the Dublin Summer Playground. The playground is visited on weekends and vacations by parents bringing their children and is also used for special events such as the annual Winterfest.

According to PTO Playground Committee Chair Emily Bennett, the current playground at DCS is about 20 years old and not up to safety codes. Members of the PTO have done extensive research and already met with landscape architect Karen Fitzgerald. Bennett indicated that the goal is to use the terrain at DCS as part of the new playground, with slides built into the hills, and to include an obstacle course rather than traditional playground platforms (see rendering above).

This innovative approach would use green building techniques such as recycled materials and natural elements and would include a wooden gazebo. Not only would this gazebo be useful for recess time but it could also be used for things such as plays and musical productions.

The approximate cost of the new playground is $60,000. So far the PTO is able to contribute $7,000 from various fundraisers such as food sales and the Yankee Barn Sale. They will continue to hold fundraisers and have submitted a Warrant Article for the 2016 Town Meeting.

According to Bennett, the Dublin Community Foundation has pledged $2,000 toward the goal, and the PTO has set up a crowd-funding website (www.gofundme.com/dcsplayground). However, more funds are needed. The PTO knows how much the DCS means to the community, and we need your help for an up-to-date playground for Dublin's children.

MARY ARMSTRONG is president of the DCS PTO.

Traceymay Kalvaitis, neighbors on Cobb Meadow Rd., and other volunteers, including many Dublin School students, helped the Conservation Commission plant almost a dozen trees beautifully spaced and fertilized under the direction of Miriam Carter on Sept. 26. They will serve as a visual buffer in front of the Town Barn for years to come.

Swap Shop Update

The Swap Shop located at the Dublin Recycling Center had been closed for a while due to the fact that there were many unusable and prohibited items left at the Shop. With no volunteers available, the task of sorting and disposal of these items fell to the Recycling Center staff.

The Recycling Committee picked up the responsibility for the operation of the Swap Shop, and set open hours that volunteers could commit to. Currently the hours are 9 am to 1 pm and 3 pm to 5 pm, on Saturdays only. The more volunteers who can commit to working, the more the Swap Shop can be open.

We urge residents dropping off items at the Swap Shop to remember that:

- No fee items are allowed (TVs, printers, fax machines, etc.)
- No large furniture (nothing larger than a kitchen chair or side table)

- No food items or hazardous items (i.e., lawn or pet sprays)
- No items originally meant as disposable (i.e., aluminum pans, trays)
- Must be in usable condition (if you wouldn't take it, don't leave it)
- Please do not leave items outside the building when the doors are closed.

The goal is for good, usable items to come into and go out to be "re-homed" from the Swap Shop. Please forward any questions, concerns, or suggestions to the Recycling Committee.

With the winter coming on, keeping the Swap Shop open will be a challenging task, as there is no heat or electricity available at the Shop. There is the possibility that the Swap Shop may be closed or hours shortened significantly. The Committee will strive to keep any news regarding the open hours posted on the Swap Shop door.

Thank you for your understanding.

Historical Society Observes the Day

Governor Maggie Hassan proclaimed Saturday, September 5th, as “Portsmouth Peace Treaty Day.” The proclamation notes that whereas President Teddy Roosevelt designated NH as the location for the peace negotiations between Russia and Japan in 1905 and whereas “an uncommon commitment to peace became a common virtue as citizen diplomacy... significantly contributed to the favorable outcome of the negotiations,” the Governor called on the residents of New Hampshire “to observe the day with appropriate ceremonies and activities” in commemoration.

Kentaro Kaneko, a member of the Japanese delegation, represents Dublin’s connection to the Portsmouth Peace Treaty. He came to stay with the Joseph Lindon Smiths at their home on Loon Point shortly after the signing of the treaty. The Smiths had met Kaneko previously during their four-month stay in Japan in 1901.

To celebrate Dublin’s connection to the Portsmouth Peace Treaty, Lisa Foote read Governor Hassan’s proclamation in full next to the Living Memorial Cherry Tree, recently planted and dedicated on the lawn of the 1841 Schoolhouse Museum.

She and Lucy Shonk then rang the bell in the Dublin Community Church for three minutes starting at 3:47 pm, the time of day the treaty had been signed 110 years ago.

MESA’s 28th Annual Meeting & Potluck

This annual event is a gathering of the Monadnock Eastern Slope Association’s (MESA) members and all concerned with protecting and learning more about Mount Monadnock and the region where we live. A potluck supper will be held on Sunday, October 25, beginning at 5 pm at the Dublin Community Center.

Following a brief business meeting, Henry Walters will speak on “The Sensible Wilderness.” Drawing on his experience as a falconer, bird rehabilitator, seasonal hawkwatcher and steward of a wildlife sanctuary, Henry will discuss the ways we experience wildness.

How does the chance encounter with a bear and cubs differ from disciplined study of their natural history or from long-term devotion to the ecosystem that has supported them? What constitutes our connection to the kestrels that nest in our fields, or to the one passing through overhead twice a year? Answers to these questions may suggest how a new brand of engagement with the natural world begins with a change in our individual and collective perspectives.

Henry Walters is a writer and naturalist who has apprenticed with falconers in Ireland, beekeepers in Sicily, and schoolteachers in Ghana, and is currently Playwright-in-Residence at Dublin School. His poems, essays and translations have appeared in a range of publications from The American Guide to Hawk Migration Studies and The Old Farmer’s Almanac. Henry has been described as “copiously talented,” and last April he spoke with a recently rescued hawk on his arm to a packed audience at the Harris Center.

A Talk on Dublin's Art Heritage

BY MARY LOFTIS

2015 marks the 20th year that the Friends of the Dublin Art Colony / Monadnock Art has sponsored an autumn Open Studio Tour. This year's tour takes place October 10 and 11 (Columbus Day weekend) and encompasses 45 artists' studios in Autumn landscape by Richard Meryman. Oil on board.

Dublin, Hancock, Harrisville, Jaffrey, Marlborough, Peterborough and Sharon. Maps for the free, self-guided event are available at the Dublin General Store, Carr's Store, the Dublin Community Center and the Dublin Library as well as at the Chambers of Commerce in Peterborough and Jaffrey (and many other places). See last month's Advocate for a rundown of Dublin's participating artists.

The Monadnock Region enjoys a sense of community centered on the arts, a tradition that stretches back to the late 19th century when a group of artists including Abbott Thayer, Frank Benson, George de Forest Brush, Joseph Lindon Smith, Rockwell Kent, Alexander James and others worked and socialized in the shadow of Mt. Monadnock. Although never a formal artist's colony, this group drew inspiration from each other as well as the natural environment. This "contagious creativity" has existed in the region ever since and is evident every year during the Art Tour.

In conjunction with the Art Tour, during the month of October the Dublin Community Center will display a small collection of historical works by members of the original "art colony." On Sunday, October 4, at 3 pm local author Edie Clark will present a talk called "In the Latin Quarter," which is a reference to the early nickname given to the area since so many of the early artists had studied in Paris; she will discuss Dublin's historical artistic heritage as well as provide commentary on the works on display. Refreshments will be served and all are welcome to attend.

Edie is the author of the upcoming book As Simple as That, a collection of essays from her Yankee column currently celebrating its 25th year, which she will be reading in a separate event on October 18, also at the Community Center.

MARY LOFTIS is on the staff of the Advocate.

Edie Tuttle's oil painting, Jen-Daloz Mill, appears on the cover of the September/October issue of Monadnock Table magazine, which also includes three of Edie's watercolors — an apple, an onion and a harvest still life — on the inside pages. Her studio will be open during the Monadnock Art Studio Tour on October 10 and 11.

Edie Clark to Read from Her New Book

Edie Clark will read from her new book As Simple As That: Collected Essays at the Dublin Community Center on Sunday, October 18, at 3 pm.

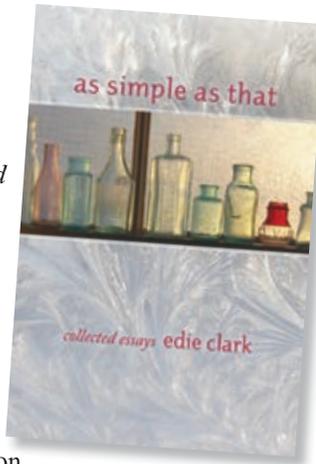

As Simple As That is a new collection celebrating 25 years of writing her popular column in Yankee magazine. The essays cover Edie's years in the garden at Chesham Depot through her move to and transformation of Mary's Farm, a place of stillness and beauty, an endless source of inspiration. Renowned novelist Ernie Hebert has this to say about the book: "A beautiful book about love, grief, and the natural world. Reads like a how-to manual but feels like a lyric poem."

Nonfiction writer, Richard Adams Carey, wrote: "The only thing I didn't like about this book is that it came to an end."

The book includes essays with topics that range from shooting the remains of the dearly departed from a cannon, to finding a snapping turtle laying eggs in the garden, to prayer ice. Also covered are root cellars, haying, frozen pipes, white nights, wood heat, favorite dogs, fruitcake weather and the art of Christmas cards.

The book runs the gamut of life in the country and what it is to live in small-town New England. More than 100 essays, some never-before published, crowd this book with a great rural adventure, sometimes funny, sometimes poignant but always enjoyable.

Refreshments will be served.

On Tuesday, October 27, Rick Harnden will present "Exoplanets: Life on Other Planets?" from 3 pm to 4:30 pm at the Peterborough Community Theater, 6 School St., Peterborough. This is offered by Monadnock at Home, the local non-profit dedicated to supporting area seniors who wish to stay in their own home.

Learn about the possibility of habitable planets around distant stars — no longer the stuff of science fiction. Astronomers have now amassed convincing evidence for the existence of at least thousands of planets around stars other than our Sun, just within our own Milky Way Galaxy.

Rick is a retired astrophysicist who spent 40 years working at the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics (Cambridge, MA) and NASA Headquarters (Washington, DC). A veteran of the last half-century of excitement in the space age, Rick enjoys sharing his enthusiasm for the Universe and its mysteries with folks of all ages.

This program is free and open to the community. To register or find out more, call Sandra Faber, Member Services Coordinator at 603-371-0809, or email help@monadnockathome.org.

Tax Planning Part II

If the Market Growth Rate will increase an Estate’s value above the Lifetime Exemption:

- ♦ Gifting of assets should occur sooner rather than later to transfer more appreciation.
- ♦ Estate taxes will be reduced.
- ♦ The rate of return on transferred assets will likely be higher.
